Thank you for your taking the time to visit this web site and congratulations on your forthcoming marriage!

Our approach to photography

Hopefully you will have seen that the type of wedding photography we do is the relaxed and informal reportage style, with just a few of the well thought out line up shots that complete the package. We like to think our mission is to take some 'wedding photographs' but the bulk of what we do is 'photographs of your wedding'.

On the day, we will be there to take all the line-up pictures you might want, the informal shots of any and all of your guests, and the candid, reportage and 'memory-prompt' shots that show what your day was really about. We will be present from whenever you wish (house first or straight to the church/registry office), and we are there until the speeches. We let the day happen, and snap away as it does, and every so often suggest when is a good moment to capture something a little more posed - but never contrived. Being there for this length of time means we don't miss a thing and we don't force anything.

The first principle of photography is timing. Never book a photographer who's timing is geared to getting away as soon as possible, for their mind is no longer on photography, it is, I am afraid, on their watch!

On the day, we do not limit to the number of photographs taken, but equally we don't take pictures for the sake of it. Every shot is thought about both individually, and where it fits in the bigger picture, which is the finished set of pictures.

After the big day

Photography is now digital. Which means an awful lot more can be done after the event to bring out the best in a picture. We want you to have the best so every photograph we take is tuned and retouched to perfection.

Tuning the pictures is the adjustment of the exposure, the levels, the colour balance, the framing, the sharpness etc. Retouching the pictures is changing them in a number of ways including; taking distracting things out of the picture, or putting things into a picture, defocussing things, sorting blemishes and blinks, adding filters and effects, etc.

How you receive the pictures

The set of pictures we create will be uploaded onto a web page for you and your guests to see. The format of the web page being very similar to the ones we use for our own portfolio pages. From this you may choose 100 pictures to have printed size 8x6 inches. These will be sent to you loose - not in an album. You will also receive a DVD of all the pictures in movie form. This is moving picture album, set to music, that you would play on any DVD player. This is an innovative way of presenting pictures that is fun and compliments the prints you receive perfectly. The DVD is for showing and reliving the day, and can't be damaged like a print can... The web page is for showing and ordering reprints, and the included prints are for picture frames, mantle pieces, albums, pin boards, whatever!

Our Charges

Our charges are really very simple because the package always includes the following -

Attendance from when you say (house or church/registry office) to speeches.

No limit on the number of pictures taken.

A web page of all the pictures taken (up within 2 - 4 days).

One DVD movie of all pictures taken (with edits/music as you direct).

One hundred 8x6 quality prints as chosen by you from the web site.

All pictures are edited and retouched to be the best possible.

The option of all the image files, optimum resolution, on CD.

The fully inclusive charge is £1300 within London, £1400 within home counties. For those who wish to take the option of a full set of the image files, the charge is £1650 within London, £1750 within the home counties. Additional charges for outside home counties by negotiation.

The deposit is £300, the balance is due on the day. There are NO Extras to pay unless you order more prints or DVDs. We do discounts for late bookings and for very small affairs. We don't do discounts in return for curtailing the time we are present because that restricts what we can achieve and we only want to achieve the best possible for you on your wedding day.

Please telephone or e-mail us for any further questions that you may have, to check availability, or to get a sample DVD movie. We are happy to help in any way possible.
